Newest RN Ship Has TV Network

LONDON (CP)—Everything's up to date in the Royal Navy—including a floating television network.

The £2.750 TV system has been installed in Britain's newest and biggest aircraft carrier, the 36,800-ton Ark Royal. It can be used both on operations and for entertainment.

The giant carrier, worth about $15,000,000, is equipped with one TV camera and eight large screens. Eventually it is hoped to have 20 more small screens.

Capt. D. A. F. Campbell, Ark Royal's commanding officer, said the system is used mainly for entertainment of the 2,700-man crew, picking up BBC programs, but it can also be used for simultaneous briefing of pilots in three sections of the ship.

It is hoped, he said, to provide "live" programs later from the ship's studio.

Clergy Divided on Question Barrier to Marriage of Divorcees Not Church Law

(Opposition by the Church of England appears to be the greatest obstacle in the marriage of Prince Margaret and Capt. Peter Townsend. But, as a matter of record, the Church of England itself is divided on whether a divorced person might marry.)

This dispatch by the editor of the Church of England's newspaper reveals that no such united opposition exists.

By THE REV. C. O. RHODES
(Copyright 1955 by the United Press and the London Daily Express.)

LONDON (UPI)—During the discussion about Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend, several sweeping assertions have been made regarding the attitude of the Church of England toward remarriage after divorce. These need correction.

It has been said, for instance, that, according to church law, the remarriage of a divorced person is no marriage during the lifetime of the other partner. An eminent ecclesiastic, Canon C. T. Kirtland, has said: "We cannot allow the marriage of an innocent party in church any more than we can the other party." He also said of the Princess: "She contemplates doing something which is deliberately an affront both to religion and the church."

In some places it is taken for granted that the much-canvassed marriage would automatically result in the exclusion of the Princess from the holy communion, either for a time or permanently.

What are the facts?

First I should like to clear the fog

a little by dealing with the attitude of the Archbishop of Canterbury himself.

It is well known that Dr. Fisher has expressed himself forcefully on the subject. He is firmly convinced that remarriage of divorced people is contrary to the high ideal of Christianity and should therefore not be celebrated in church.

In this matter he speaks for a large part of the Church of England. Whether he speaks for the whole is, another question.

Dr. Fisher is a man of strong convictions. From my own correspondence with him I know how deeply he feels about the sanctity of marriage and how angry he can be if he thinks

New Battle of the Atlantic

U.S. Boasts of Jetliners 'Pipe Dream' Say Britons

'Finest Thing in Aviation' Not Yet Off the Ground

NEW YORK (BUP)—A battle of the Atlantic is shaping up between British and American airlines over U.S.-built jet airliners that the British said were closer to a pipe-dream than a reality.

U.S. officials, here for the annual meeting of the 75-airline, 40-nation International Air Transport Association, said the planes which Pan-American World Airways announced it would operate to Britain by 1960 were the finest thing that had happened to aviation.

Their British counterparts, who declined to be identified by name because they still have two more days to spend here at the so-called "world's airlines parliament," said a polite version of "no-hum."

They said they would take a lot of convincing that the $289,000,000 order for 45 of the 80-to-100-passenger jets from two American firms either would be filled on time or live up to its press clippings as, when and if, the planes ever get into service.

One British official attending Wednesday's IATA sessions on operations, equipment and facilities was openly skeptical that the costly American jets, designed to weigh 250,000 pounds each and fly at close to 600 miles an hour between New York and London, would ever make it.

"If they ever are delivered, it is more likely that they will cruise at nearly 100 miles an hour slower than that and make so much noise that authorities in New York, for example, won't stand for them," he said.

New Round Opens

Canada To Battle U.S. Giveaways

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's fight to protect its vital export wheat markets against the United States giveaway program reopens in Washington today.

A four-man mission left by plane late Wednesday for a conference expected to last one day in the U.S. capital.

Its aim: to seek closer consultation on the workings of the huge U.S. program for disposing of surplus wheat stocks.

Canada claims her own overseas markets are being adversely affected and hopes to obtain a say in policing of the U.S. program.

The wheat board, a federal agency, markets Prairie grain.

The Washington talks were lined up at the Sept. 26 meeting of the Canada-U.S. joint economic and trade committee. That body, made up of four cabinet ministers from each country, agreed to work for closer consultation on the American giveaway program.

Slip Cuts Road

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Approximately 50 feet of main highway 17 miles north of here was taken out or covered with mud, rocks and trees Wednesday when three acres of land slipped down the road.

The landslide was started by an arctic spring. The spring, land engineer F. E. Dembske said, became plugged and the water saturated the hillside.

'We Must Find It'

Princess Sends Officialdom into Dither; Queen Mother's Plaque Lost from Chair

A usually shy Princess Royal last night made British Columbia officialdom blush.

Her Royal Highness made an unscheduled tour of the legislative buildings last night and found that plaques marking the royal chairs in the executive chamber have been incorrectly placed and that one is missing.

Plaques on one chair showed that King George VI had sat in it on May 3, 1939, and that the Duke of Edinburgh had sat in it on Oct. 22, 1951.

The other chair had a plaque which showed Queen Elizabeth had sat in it on Oct. 22, 1951, when she was a princess.

The Princess Royal put on her glasses and scrutinized the plaques carefully. She noticed that one was missing . . . the one which would have showed where Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother) sat.

"We must find that plaque. Look, it has been here," she said to Health Minister Eric Martin. "We must trace the plates."

She studied the plaques further and argued that according to protocol Princess Elizabeth should have sat in the same chair as her father had occupied in 1939, but the plaques showed the Duke of Edinburgh had sat in it.

She was assured by Deputy Provincial Secretary R. A. Pennington that Princess Elizabeth had sat in her father's chair. He explained that workmen must have put the plaques on the wrong chairs.

"B.C.'s face is very red tonight," Mr. Pennington told the princess.

tions passed a series of 13 resolutions dealing with marriage.

Here is the important one: "That in order to maintain the principle of lifelong obligation which is inherent in every marriage contract between Christians (however solemnized) and is expressed in the plainest terms in the marriage service, the church should not allow the use of that service in the case of anyone who has a partner still living."

Such was the opinion of the majority in convocations 17 years ago. It is only an opinion and does not have the force of law.

What is more, although as an expression of a majority opinion it carries a certain moral weight with the clergy, it has no authority whatever with the laity of the church who do not take part in elections to the convocations and have no place in them.

What is the attitude of the clergy themselves? If recent sample polls of opinion are to be trusted, nearly half of the clergy disapprove of the resolutions of the convocations. They would marry in church persons who have been through the divorce courts if the circumstances warranted this.

It is not true that Princess Margaret is "deliberately affronting religion and the church." That was a cruel and unjust thing to say.

On the contrary she is a splendid and conscientious churchwoman herself.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A DESPERATE Toronto woman hanged herself in jail after she and her husband were arrested on a $10 shoplifting charge.

Police learned that the family had been getting along on $28 or $30 a week.

When the news hit the couple, they immediately wanted to help with jobs, money, advice and clothes for the children.

Toronto proved itself a city with a heart. The husband's financial worries are over. He must be grateful. But he would have been even more grateful, I suppose, if Toronto had found its heart a few days earlier, when his wife was still alive.

One should not be cynical about human distress. It is a good thing that this poor man and his children have been helped, even though it took such a terrible sacrifice to make his plight known.

At the same time, one can not help wondering about the other poor people who have managed to refrain from shoplifting or hanging themselves. How are they getting along?

When a house burns down and a family is left homeless and destitute, there is often a great outburst of human kindness. Someone creates a special fund, and the people of the neighborhood rush to help with money and goods.

Before the ashes are cold, the victims are better endowed than they ever were before. Good luck to them.

Meanwhile, however, a great number of people who still have their houses, or rent a corner of someone else's house, are leading a precarious life—stuffing the chinks in the wall with old newspapers and trying to make a couple of cans of beans last until the pension cheque comes through.

Even in our prosperous society, there are thousands who live a painful existence in that no-man's land between starvation and a living income. They are not poor enough to receive charity. Many of them would be too proud to accept it. But they are not rich enough to live like human beings.

They do not complain. They drag along at the edge of respectability, with nothing to console them but their pride.

Humans are odd animals. They respond generously, though often too late, to spectacular need. But they forget a far greater number of cases of hardship silently endured.

The bitter moral seems to be that it pays to let the house burn down.

Help Came Too Late

Offers of assistance from shocked Torontonians can't erase the grief experienced by Gerarda Trillo and his three children over the tragic death of 35-year-old Mrs. Trillo, who hanged herself in her jail cell Monday after she and her husband were arrested on a $10 shoplifting charge. Police discovered the family had been getting along on an income of $28 to $30 a week. After the tragedy job offers and financial help were showered on the grief-stricken family, which came to Canada from Italy nine months ago.

Bid Accepted

Cost $2,639,878
For Ripple Blast

OTTAWA (CPI)—A $2,639,878 bid by two Vancouver companies to remove the treacherous Ripple Rock was accepted Wednesday.

The works department announced that successful bidders to blast the two-peaked rock from Seymour Narrows were Northern Construction Company and J. W. Stewart Ltd., of Vancouver—a single firm—and Boyles Bros. Drilling Co. Ltd. The two firms submitted a combined bid.

A bid of $2,593,621 was submitted jointly at opening of tenders here Sept. 28 by the firms of Emil Anderson Construction Co. Ltd., of Hope, B.C., and Northwood Construction Co. Ltd., of Vancouver.

A department spokesman said that although this tender appeared lower an examination of the bid showed that the companies included an escalator clause which would have made the price for removing the rock higher than the bid of the two Vancouver companies.

Dairymen Question Butter Surplus Total

OTTAWA (CPI)—The dairy trade apparently disagrees sharply with Agriculture Minister Gardiner on the extent of Canada's butter surplus.

The National Dairy Council of Canada issued a statement Wednesday in which it estimated the butter surplus at 10,000,000 pounds. Mr. Gardiner was reported as saying Canada may export 10,000,000 pounds of butter to Europe. "There is no surplus other than the 10,000,000 pounds we may export," he added.

The council said the federal government, which buys surplus butter under its agriculture prices support program, is believed to be holding just under 100,000,000 pounds.

The council, which represents most of the country's dairy people, said butter stocks Oct. 1 totalled 126,365,000 pounds—42,000,000 more than the five-year average for this time of year.

"With milk production running at an all-time high, it is estimated that the butter surplus exceeds domestic needs by some 65,000,000 pounds," the council said.

Mau Mau Terror Dimmed As Crisis in Fourth Year

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—The Mau Mau terrorist emergency enters its fourth year in Kenya today with prospects much brighter than 12 months ago, although thousands of the anti-white cultists are still at large.

An official statement by the Kenya government said the outlook is better than many had dared hope a year ago. But it added, despite enormous Mau Mau casualties figures in three years of fighting "it must be recognized that there are still some thousands of terrorists at large, hiding in the forests, African reserves and settled areas."

In the three years, 10,800 Mau Mau have been killed, while 561 members of the Kenya security forces and 1,660 civilians lost their lives.

The 10,800 Mau Mau dead include 962 Kikuyu natives who were executed for murder, carrying arms, administering oaths or other offences.

The Mau Mau, a secret society among the Kikuyu tribesmen, was first discovered in March, 1950. Police, patrolling the white highlands, stumbled on African farm laborers taking part in a blood-drinking ceremony.

The 30,000 white settlers in the British colony, outnumbered by 175 times as many natives, refused to take much notice at first. Then Mau Mau terrorists started to attack loyal African villages and white settlers on their isolated farms in orgies of savage butchery and murder.

Since then the death toll has mounted. About 2,000 other Mau Mau have surrendered to authorities and a like number has been captured by security forces.

Garden Notes

Rhubarb Plant Deserves Care

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In the average home garden, the rhubarb plants have a tendency to become something of a family heirloom. They are tucked away down in the far corner of the garden along with the horseradish and the mint patch, and never get any attention at all, barring an occasional bucketful of soapy water from the family wash.

Rhubarb deserves better treatment than this. Don't forget that throughout the spring months, and up until the first strawberries are picked, these few neglected rhubarb plants furnish us with the only fresh fruit for our table. I call it fruit—it is, of course, a vegetable—because a dish of stewed rhubarb or rhubarb pie is a perfect substitute for a fruit dessert.

NEEDS FROST
The plant is a native of Siberia, and doesn't take too kindly to our mild climate, as it needs a pretty heavy dose of frost to put it to sleep for the winter. However, given a few kind words and a little intelligent care, it can be induced to produce lots of juicy, succulent sticks for pies, desserts and even wine.

Name Change Under Fire

VIEW ROYAL—Objection to any change of name for the Island highway is being filed by members of the View Royal Community Association with E. S. Jones, deputy highways minister.

Many new names have been suggested, most unpopular of which is Sogke road.

It is felt that needless expense would be caused local businesses in changing signs, as well as letter and bill heads.

Also involved would be the present telephone directory.

If, however, a new name must be found, the meeting has designated "Craigflower road."

False Claims Charged In Hiring for Kitimat

Firms at Kitimat and Kemano were accused last night of false pretences in their efforts to lure workers up to the giant Aluminum Company of Canada projects.

Delegates to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council moved that a committee go to the National Employment Service and protest attempts to hire workers for Kitimat and Kemano.

"There's no place to stay, there's no food, and no work," said T.L.C. organizer Tom Gooderham, who arrived back from Kitimat two days ago. "Workers who can't find jobs up there are being charged with vagrancy."

The discussion began after it was reported that married men who would take their families

"There are 10 to 12 people sleeping in the labor hall at Kitimat," said Mr. Gooderham. "Everything that has a roof on it has people sleeping underneath it."

The hotel there had 23 rooms and a beer parlor with a 600 capacity. The cheapest hotel they are paying workers off at is a rate of 40 to 50 a day."

He added it was obviously an attempt by the firms to try to sell their "lousy" houses for else are being asked to go there," he added.

U.S. Ruling Awaited

Western Leg of Gas Pipeline To Be Started by Next June

EDMONTON (CP) — First pipe on the west leg of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline is to be placed by June, 1956, says N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

"We are confident," said Mr. Tanner, "that we can go ahead with construction in 1956."

Only an unfavorable ruling by the United States Federal Power Commission on import of Canadian gas into the northern midwest U. S. will stall the 1956 beginning. Mr. Tanner told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday.

The 2,200-mile, $350,000,000 transmission line, to carry Alberta natural gas to the Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal areas and points in between, was first planned in 1954. It ran into difficulties twice over financing arrangements, but last week Trade Minister Howe announced at Port Arthur that satisfactory arrangements now have been worked out.

GOING TO OTTAWA

Mr. Tanner said he will be in Ottawa "within the next few days" to work out final details with federal officials on the present plan, under which Alberta gas is to be exported to the U. S. from a point at Emerson, Man., and the eastern markets are to be served with U. S. gas until Trans-Canada's all-Canadian line is completed.

Mr. Tanner said Trans-Canada Pipe Lines has an agreement with the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. to supply 90,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily to eastern markets. In return, Tennessee Gas will take 200,000,000 from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines at Emerson for its customers in the U. S. midwest.

The Federal Power Commission must provide a permit for this import into the U. S. and Mr. Tanner said a hearing on this question will start in Washington in December. He said a decision is not expected until April.

WILL GO AHEAD

Meanwhile, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines intends to go ahead with plans for construction of the western leg and an eastern distribution network in Ontario and Quebec.

The agreement with Tennessee Gas to provide gas for eastern markets is to be cancelled when the Trans-Canada line is completed.

"The financing has been done, pipe has been ordered and we will be ready to proceed with the plan

It now is in the possession of British publisher Lord Beaverbrook, and he says he intends to keep it. He is not directly involved in the lawsuit.

Mrs. Florence Dickerman of New York's fashionable Fifth avenue filed suit against the Mutual Insurance Company for $45,000 last Sept. 29. The company had insured the painting for that amount.

Today Justice Thomas A. Aurelio adjourned until Nov. 9 hearing on the motion in the State Supreme Court.

In her suit, Mrs. Dickerman said she commissioned Anthony Seaton, an art dealer who died last year, to sell the painting. But he "converted it to his own use" and subsequently returned an imitation to her, she said in the suit.

Lord Beaverbrook said he would welcome a test of his title to the painting.

Letters to the Editor

Shabby Hotels

I read in the Colonist of Oct. 16 a "London Letter" criticizing the English hotels and other travel amenities. I wish heartily, as our country also has a tourist trade, you would do the same service to travellers here and report on conditions in our hotels.

I move around a great deal and am shocked to find, more and more, how shabby maintained they are, though constantly more expensive.

For instance, in the last four months I have stayed in five of our best-known and largest hotels all across Canada. In four the bathrooms needed urgent repairs. In two my hot water faucet handles came off as you turned; in two others the basin plugs just did not operate at all. In yet another I arrived very late at night, and though it was one of the most famous hotels of all, my room was so dirty I could not unpack.

None of our hotels have quite modern electric wiring. In quite small French and British hotels you will often find a master switch at your bedside so you can get into bed and extinguish all lights at once. Never in Canada!

Then the standards of hygiene are frankly appalling. In two of the best-known hotels in Canada I have recently noticed chefs constantly handling cold meat with their fingers, patting down fruit salads with the palm of the hand and, indeed, using their hands for any handling of food cool enough to touch, even fried bacon strips. What may occur out of the guest's sight, one is perhaps happier not to know.

Scientific Socialism

May I comment on some of the illusions held by James Minal and the Socialist Labor Party as reported in Sunday's Colonist. While he condemns present-day economic unions, he and the SLP continue to advocate their brand of economic union, claiming it's the only solution for the workers today. I challenge Mr. Minal or the SLP to prove how any union can take and hold the means of production and distribute the goods produced, in the interest of the working class without having first captured political power and control of the state. History of all economic actions, strikes, etc., prove the opposite to be true.

Daniel De Leon in his writings proves the SLP is a party of direct actionist when he says "The industrial union is the hammering ram with which to pound down the fortress of capitalism." They refuse to recognize one fact, that the capitalist class do not have security through their economic organization, but their economic organization is secure only through their control of political power, and any attempt to change society's rulers must of necessity lead to an organized political effort on the part of those who desire such change. Another illusion is "that the workers will receive the full results of their production." That being the case how will doctors, nurses, teachers, etc., be able to do their jobs?

Under socialism the workers will not receive the full results of their production, neither will there be equal distribution. On the contrary, production will be "from each according to his abilities and to each according to his needs." That is scientific socialism which Mr. Minal and his party do not understand.

Agnostics

Rev. William Hills makes some astounding statements in his column of Oct. 13. Very little comment is possible in a brief letter; therefore, it seems wisest to pass over his remarks regarding atheists and merely to draw attention to the contradiction contained in two paragraphs. In the first of these: "... for the order of physical nature is another aspect of God's manifestation of Himself to his children." While in the second there is this: "... for we are all in some measure reverent agnostics."

As a "reverent agnostic" how is Mr. Hills able to reconcile his conviction that there is a God who manifests Himself while at the same time doubting the existence of that which he reveres, worships?

The dictionary defines "to revere" as "to stand in awe or fear of" and gives as a synonym "to worship."

What need have sane minds of such a word? They are able to show that "fellowship is life" and that worship is a purely emotional act; any beneficial results it may appear to have can be better obtained through activities uncontaminated by superstition.

Heavy School Bags

I suppose the parents and the schools know best, but I am wondering if it is necessary for young growing children to carry around such heavy school bags. Whenever I see a child weighed down by one of these bags standing in the bus in the morning, I usually offer to help, and it appears to me that the bags contain at least six heavy books.

Self-Respect First

Doctors' Panel Gives Tips On Long and Happy Old Age

Victoria, retirement centre of Canada, was given tips for a happy old age last night.

absorbed faces and occasional gleeful chuckles as four city doctors discussed "The Aging Process" at Victoria college.

Dr. E. T. W. Nash gave his idea of "ideal" accommodation for elderly people in a community.

"Great care must be taken not to encroach on the old folks' self respect, and this can so easily be done," said Dr. Nash.

"I'm thinking of a big institution, with rooms like cells and no facilities for even making tea."

"The inmates are called to meals by a clanging bell and if they don't go, they don't get any."

IDEAL HOME

"Ideally, the old person's quarters should be on one floor, with no long flights of steps. The floor should be non-slip, and the cupboards placed to avoid unnecessary bending. There should be a workshop or den, where the elderly person can do something creative. Rugs are a lethal thing—they cause many broken hips."

"The stove should be gas or electric—not using sawdust or wood. Surroundings are important. A park is nice, or the sea, with library, golf course and church near at hand."

"I am against too much sitting around watching TV—elderly people should have scope for creative work."

Dr. J. F. Tysoe raised chuckles from old people when he described what sometimes happened when men who had reached the 60s felt the need to assert their virility.

"They begin doing press-ups."

Quick Solution Sought

Police Tighten Net Around Boys' Killers

CHICAGO (AP)—The possibility of a quick solution to the ghostly slaying of three boys was foreseen Wednesday night by Sheriff Joseph D. Lohman.

Lohman said he had assigned 37 investigators to specific lines of inquiry and added:

"Their efforts should either produce a quick solution to this case or narrow our path of investigation a great deal."

Various bits of fresh information spurred the widespread search for the savage killer or killers earlier in the day.

GAP NARROWED

Police made progress, both in point of time and distance, in filling in the gap in the young victims' last night alive.

A bus driver told of taking them Sunday night to a point about four miles from where their naked bodies were found Tuesday in Robinson woods west of the city.

The boys—Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother, Anton, 11—had been traced earlier to two bowling alleys they had visited Sunday evening. They left the second alley about 8 p.m.

The time of death has been estimated around midnight Sunday. So that left about three hours and four miles to fill in before the pre-death mystery is solved.

Daniel Conway, chief of the forest preserve rangers, announced what was termed "the hottest clue so far."

HOT-ROD'S REEN

E. J. Malone, who lives near the woods, told Conway he saw two old automobiles of the hot-rod type parked near the ditch where the bodies were found. Malone said he saw the cars about five hours before the bodies were found.

The victims were strangled and beaten. Investigators figure they were killed by teen-agers, a powerful madman or at least two adults.

Nostalgic Numbers Return 'Transplants' Back Home

The Royal theatre was transformed into a Glasgow variety concert hall last night as a top-flight troupe of Scottish entertainers showered a packed house of mostly Scottish "transplants" with nostalgic numbers.

Presented by the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, the White Heather Group concert featured Scotland's No. 1 band leader, and accordion soloist Jimmy Shand, who won the audience's participation even in a Highland-sounding version of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Following an opening skit by the smartly-kilted Canadian Scottish pipe band, emcee Jimmy Neill, a star attraction at Glasgow's Metropole, warmed up a fast patter which, early in the performance, won the applause of even the scattered "foreigners."

HILARIOUS IMITATIONS
Jack Anthony, Scotland's top comedian, exhibited his versatility with hilarious imitations of Sir Harry Lauder, Phil Harris and Danny Kaye. In his skills he was assisted by comedienne Bertha Ricardo.

What's news at Inco?

Towing highly sensitive instruments from an aeroplane, Inco's air prospectors have been able to locate promising mineral deposits hidden beneath the earth's surface. Then by referring up a continuous strip of photographs taken from the plane, they can point out likely areas to be worked by ground prospectors.

INCO TROLLS FOR MINERALS FROM AN AEROPLANE

Present-day prospectors have new and valuable partners in the air. Equipped with special instruments, an aeroplane can troll for minerals over vast areas in the course of a few hours. A prospector, travelling by canoe or on foot, would have taken months—perhaps years—to cover the same territory.

In the past twenty-five years, science has developed new methods for probing the earth for minerals. The magnetometer, a device which measures local variations in the earth's magnetic field, is useful in many ways. In addition, several other devices in general use are employed by Inco in the search for sulphide ores—the ores which are most likely to contain nickel and copper deposits worth developing.

At Inco, airborne prospectors, assisted by a special research organization, have already covered more than 40,000 square miles in air surveys of Canada's potential ore resources.

Inco's findings have helped maintain Canada's position of leadership in the production of nickel.

Through continuing research and utilization of the latest developments of science, Inco helps bring new wealth to Canada.

Write for your free copy of the 72-page illustrated booklet, "The Romance of Nickel". Bulk copies will be supplied to secondary school teachers on request.

Film Delegates Prepare Plans For Festival

October, 1956, were made when delegates attended the annual meeting of Vancouver Island Film Council in Nanaimo at the weekend.

A committee comprising F. Young and V. J. Baines of Victoria and R. McKinnon of Duncan, will draw up a program to be presented at the quarterly meeting in Nanaimo in February. Ernest Belton, National Film Board representative, and Norman Barton of UBC will be advisors to the committee.

The four film councils represented at the meeting reported healthy growth and an active year.

Officers re-elected for another year were A. Kestle Taylor of Alberni Valley Film Council, president; G. Kimbly of Cowichan council, vice-president; S. Wilson of Alberni valley, secretary-treasurer.

A suggestion that a convention of all B.C. film councils be held next year, possibly in Penticton, was discussed. The idea is to be considered by the various groups.

After the meeting, eight films were shown by Mr. Belton.

DUNCAN—Curling season started in earnest here this week with 33 mixed risks competing in a novelty bonspiel which will continue for one week.

Draw schedule for the year starts Nov. 24.

Officers for the year are J. E. Mould, president; Mrs. Melba Schappert, secretary; M. M. Robertson, treasurer; Lloyd Lindquist, draw secretary; Ron Harper, Tony

Youths Sentenced for Theft

Gerrett Play, 18, of Beaver Creek road, and his brother, Ever, 19, each received six months definite and six months indeterminate on the same theft charges.

COBBLE HILL—George E. Bonner was re-elected representative for school attendance area of Cobble Hill at a meeting this week of ratepayers in the Cobble Hill school, defeating Harry Walmsley by a close margin. The meeting voted to ask District 68 school board to increase the basic grant on teachers' salaries in accordance with any award granted by an arbitration board.

Pulp Odors on Way Out

NANAIMO—The characteristic odor of pulp mills will be reduced here in December when six special towers are put into operation at MacMillan and Bloedel's Harma plant.

Cost of the installation, which follows a successful experiment at the company's Alberni mill, is $120,000. Research and experiments in the project were undertaken by the company and the B.C. Research Council in 1947.

COURTENAY—Graduates and students attending the high school gathered at the school auditorium Saturday night for the annual awards ceremony.

Jack Moore, president of the student council, was chairman.

Top award winner was Francis Munro, who won the Noel McPhee scholarship, the Crown Zellerbach scholarship and the Galloway shield and was co-winner with Tom Carlyle of the Oley shield, given to the boy and girl students who contributed most to the school.

Highest marks in first aid were made by Jeanette Hames, who received the Rotary shield.

The 36 members of last year's graduating class were presented with certificates by Trustee D. E. Newson, and the girls in the graduating class were presented with miniature cedar chests by D. L. Morris.

The Richardson mathematics prize was presented to John Fremont; Legion bursary to Ian Clark; Comox Legion prize to Charles Howard; Gerry Merrill, president of Courtenay high school PTA, presented PTA prizes and bursaries.

Firecracker Ban To Be Enforced

NANAIMO—The street and traffic by-law on firecrackers will be rigidly enforced by Nanaimo RCMP. According to the by-law it is an offence to set off firecrackers on any public street within the city.

Police said the enforcement is chiefly aimed at persons tossing firecrackers from cars in the downtown area, or setting them off in doorways.

Crofton Decision

Development of Mill Delays Civic Plans

NORTH COWICHAN—Expansion of municipal services in Crofton are being delayed pending developments expected to take place when the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill is in operation there.

Council of the municipality has been reluctant to make any major changes in Crofton until the mill is constructed, because councillors feel the needs of the village will be completely altered when the pulp mill is operating.

Held up now is a plan by the Crofton fire brigade for a new truck and an expansion of the fire-protection area. Also delayed is a decision on expansion of the water service.

Both questions were discussed

Fishermen Appeal For Help

NANAIMO—An appeal aimed at providing relief work for fishermen and directed to federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair is being considered. It was announced yesterday by Mack Spring, president of local 15, United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, and Charles J. Schule, union secretary.

The two officials of the union were reporting on an interview Monday in Vancouver with Joe Whitmore, chief fisheries supervisor of B.C., when fishing closures were being protested.

Some 300 local fishermen face a bleak winter till the halibut fishing commences in the spring.

Mr. Whitmore was quoted as saying "it is a very black looking future." His remarks were based on fisheries department reports.

It is planned to institute further talks in an effort to persuade Ottawa to initiate relief work such as clearing streams of debris and logs.

Kiwanis Club Elects Officers

NANAIMO—Herb Malsey has been unanimously named president of Nanaimo Kiwanis Club. He succeeds Dr. J. J. Eskins, who steps down in January.

Ernie Miller and Ronald McIsaac have been named vice-presidents, and A. L. Pickard treasurer.

Other officers are: Hugh Heath, Dr. Donald McKerricher, Eddie Miles, Frank Ney, E. L. Hodson, James Quinn and Gerry Hinde, directors.

Ferry Company Plans To Develop Increased Gulf Islands Service

Gulf Islands Navigation Limited plans to consolidate and increase its Gulf Islands-Vancouver Island-maintenance service, Oswald H. New, company managing director, said yesterday.

Mr. New said his company now has complete confidence that a satisfactory islands service can be developed.

Operation of the Lady Rose, which the company has used under charter for the past year, has proved successful, he said.

"The company is proceeding with its plans for the purchase of the Lady Rose to maintain the present service among the mainland, the Gulf Islands and Vancouver Island until a new boat can be built," said Mr. New.

SPECIAL RATES

In a move to encourage the return of agriculture to the Gulf Islands, the company plans to introduce soon a preferential rate on shipments of meat, fruit, vegetables, flowers and other commodities produced on the islands.

"This reduction in freight rates will encourage the shipment to the mainland and Vancouver Island of the once-famous Gulf Islands produce," stated Mr. New.

Timber Shipped From Chemainus

CHEMAINUS (C.P.)—A total of 17,015,212 feet of lumber was loaded aboard 22 ships calling at the ports of Chemainus and Crofton in September. Largest single load was taken on by the Liberian vessel Chosaga which cleared the port of Chemainus with 1,736,000 feet of lumber for the U.S. Bulk of the lumber, a total of 11,287,400 feet, was loaded here for the United Kingdom.

This advertisement is not published or displayed by The Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

The company official also announced that a Friday evening sailing from the mainland to the Gulf Islands is to start soon.

"This change in the schedule will permit mainlanders to spend a full week-end in the islands and will turn service from Steveston to permit the islanders to leave the Sidney through the islands on Tuesdays in the morning, spend the days, a return service from Steveston to the islands on Thursdays and the islands the same evening," said Mr. New.

The company now operates a re-night stop at Sidney.

"What," asks a reader, "is the difference between the single wing and the T formation and what is meant by such variations as the split T, winged T and unbalanced T? We continually read about this or that formation, but I feel certain that most football fans, like myself, don't quite understand."

A detailed explanation would take more space than is available here but, with the help of an expert, I'll try and explain. In the single wing, the quarterback passes directly to the carrying back, or to the fullback, who does a spin and hands off to a player who is charging toward a power-cleared hole. Any good line play has to have split-second timing and lengthy rehearsal.

In the T, which, incidentally, is about as old as college football although only becoming popular in recent years, the quarterback is stationed behind the centre and handles the ball on every play. With a deft quarterback, plays get off so fast that the opposing defence doesn't have to be knocked down to make openings. The T needs only a "brush" block and leaves room for any number of plays with the defence always hard-pressed to figure out whether the quarterback is handing off or merely feinting.

The regular, or tight, T starts from a completely balanced set-up. The tackles, guards and centre are lined-up shoulder-to-shoulder with the ends bolted out about two yards. In the backfield, the fullback and two halves are in alignment about three yards behind the quarterback.

When defences began to catch up with the regular T, variations were introduced by inventive coaches. Missouri's Don Faurot is credited with originating the popular and devastating split T. In this formation, linemen are split with about two feet between guards and the centre, a yard between tackles and guards and two yards between ends and tackles, the usual spacing. In the backfield, the backs are split wider behind the quarterback.

This widened the range of attack and obtained better blocking angles. And the quarterback, instead of handing off or dropping back to pass, found a new weapon. He could now slide along the line laterally with ball in hand waiting for any one of a number of plays which can upset any defence.

If the opposing end is crashing, the quarter can throw a shovel pass to a back running parallel and deep. If the opposing end plays a waiting game, the quarter can turn into the tackle hole, or he can fade and spot a pass to one of his ends or the lead blocker, who is always on the alert for this possibility.

In the split T, the quarterback is even more important than in the regular T. He must be a good runner in addition to an expert ball-handler and the success of the split T depends solely on his abilities.

In the winged T, one of the backs moves directly behind an end, parallel to the quarter back, and the unbalanced T is run from an unbalanced line. Neither of these formations is overly popular. The weakness, my expert says, is that they have never been able to develop a threat to the weak side.

Well, there it is in condensed form. Hope you understand. I think I do.

Random Harvest

Baseball losses go on and on. Portland Beavers have just announced an operating deficit of $57,539 for last season and, you guessed it, have blamed bad weather at the start of the season. . . . A fellow shouldn't be judged on one game but the hope here is that Blair Peeters is a better referee than it appeared Tuesday evening at Memorial Arena. He seemed to wear a perpetual air of indecision. . . . Victoria hockey fans must be pleased to read that Andy Heberton, one of the most popular of all Cougars, is starting to get his goals. He's a player who deserves his belated NHL chance. . . . Calgary Stampede took to the air lanes this week to meet their Western Hockey League schedule, which had them in Saskatoon Monday, Winnipeg Tuesday and in Regina last night. Other clubs will probably do the same whenever possible. It's a long way from Winnipeg to the Coast. . . . Old-time major league baseball star Joe Shantzle claims with considerable justification that no one broke into the majors under more trying circumstances than he did. His first appearance was as a pinch-hitter and Walter Johnson was the pitcher he had to face. Shantzle's first pitching assignment came in a relief role. The man at the plate? None other than Babe Ruth. . . . That must have been quite a hockey game in Vernon Tuesday night. Not only did veteran Willie Schmidt score two goals and pass for one between 18:34 and 19:17 of the third period to beat Kelowna, 9-8, but the game produced a total of 152 minutes in penalties and only one of the 17 goals was scored while both clubs were at full strength. Among the 40 penalties were nine majors, four misconducts and two game misconducts. . . . When tennis star Tony Trabert announced he had turned pro one cynic remarked that the only difference that made Trabert was that he was now free to accept his money by cheque. . . . Congratulations to Jim McArthur, even though he now probably has to get permission to go out in the evenings. . . . Thanks to Bob Reynolds of Crown Life for sending along a copy of his firm's 1955 Football Roster, which contains complete information on teams and players in the WFL, Big Four and ORFU. . . . Current issue of Look has interesting reading in two sports stories — one on the retirement of Ben Hogan and the other listing the sevenmost "unforgettable" games in the career of Paul Brown, famed coach of Cleveland Browns. . . . And, if things aren't going right, don't forget the slogan: "When the going gets tough is when the tough get going."

CRU Grants Vancouver 4,168 Grey Cup Ducats

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Rugby Union has allotted Vancouver 4,168 tickets for the Grey Cup football classic in Empire Stadium Nov. 26.

Don Mackenzie, president of the B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, announced the figure following a meeting of club directors Monday night.

Although temporary seats will bring the stadium's seating capacity to approximately 31,500 for the game, Mackenzie said Vancouver was fortunate in obtaining more than 4,000 tickets.

"For last year's game in Toronto," he said, "the Toronto allocation was only 1,270. We've done much better. In fact, we have been given more tickets than either of the clubs competing for the Grey Cup will receive."

Another 8,000 tickets will be issued for standing room at the north end of the stadium, Mackenzie said.

The 3,000 persons holding $20 membership in the Lions will get first chance at the seat and standing room tickets, he added.

Employed To Sit

Flag-Pole Sitter Waited in Vain

By BEN OLAN

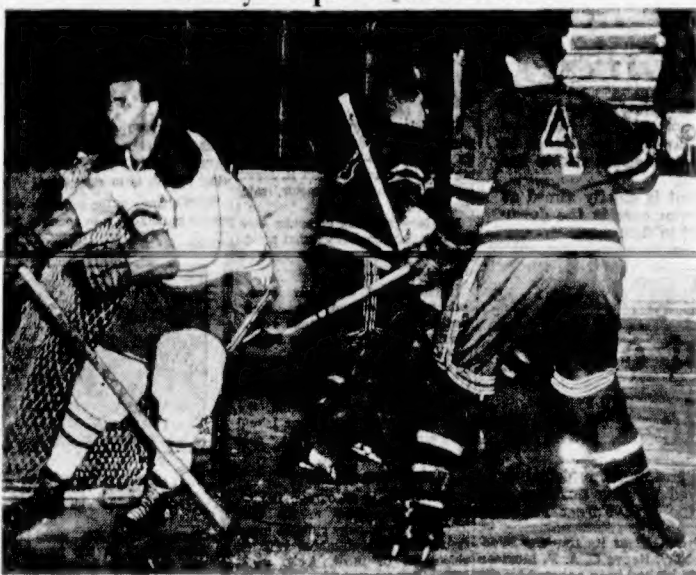

NEW YORK (AP)—For almost 15 weeks last baseball season a man was paid to sit on a flagpole, high above a building in Milwaukee. His only chore was to stay there until Braves had won seven games in a row.

Six days before the campaign closed, he came down. Braves had not been able to come up with a seven-game streak and, naturally, it was too late then.

Crazy? Maybe. But that's nothing compared to many other bizarre incidents that took place in the major leagues in 1955.

For example, did you know that 1. A pitcher worked four scoreless innings with a fractured wrist?

Worsley Stops Rocket's Blast

Lorne Worsley, former goaltender with Vancouver Canucks of WHL, has been a standout performer for New York Rangers as the Blues have won three of five games in the young NHL season. Above, Worsley has just blocked a blast by Montreal's Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Lou Fontinato (4), former WHL defenceman, watches puck glide to side. However, Richard later collected two goals in leading Canadiens to 4-1 victory last week-end. Worsley was brilliant at New York last night, making 46 saves, 21 in first period, as Rangers trimmed Toronto, 6-2, while Fontinato, apparently his usual bashing self, picked up three penalties in opening period.

Heberton Scores Two Goals As Rangers Trim Leafs, 6-2

HOW THEY STAND

Team	W	L	T	GP	PTS
Montreal	4	0	1	5	9
New York	3	2	0	5	6
Chicago	3	2	0	5	6
Boston	3	2	0	5	6
Detroit	2	3	0	5	4
Toronto	1	4	0	5	2

Last night's score: Toronto 2, New York 6. Next games: Toronto at Boston at Montreal; Chicago at Detroit.

Led by Andy Heberton, a 46-goal rightwinger with Victoria Cougars last season, New York Rangers made their home debut a successful one last night as they trounced Toronto Maple Leafs, 6-2, to move into second place in the National Hockey League.

Heberton scored his second and third goals of the season, including what proved to be the winner, as 11:58 turned out to watch the Rangers end a two-game losing streak and make their season's record 3-2.

Heberton's first goal came Sunday night in a losing game at Boston. It tied the score at 1-1 but Bruins went on to win out, 4-1.

Victory moved the Rangers one point ahead of Chicago and Boston, who now share third place, and three points behind the undefeated Montreal Canadiens, Maple Leafs, with a win and tie in seven games, are on the bottom, so far a rank failure in living up to coach King Clancy's pre-season slogan of "glamor, guts and goals." There have only been nine goals in seven games, no glamor.

Rangers were well-served last night by their nine Western Hockey League guards.

WORSLEY BUSY

Goalie Lorne Worsley was the big reason Rangers got into front. While he blocked 21 shots in the first period, the Rangers put two of nine shots behind Harry Lumley and were ahead by 5-0 before Worsley lost his shutout. The active little netminder stopped 46 shots, Lumley 24.

On defence, Ivan Irwin, Lou Fontinato and Jack Evans helped keep the Leafs at bay. Up front, Bronco Horvath got a goal and an assist, Ron Murphy got a goal and Andy Bathgate an assist.

Larry Popen, the other ex-WHL player, didn't figure in the scoring.

Jack Blonda, former Inter-City League scoring star with Victoria Shamrocks, played on the Toronto defence.

Straths Make Changes For Opener Saturday

Victoria Strathconas, due to make their Pacific Coast Soccer League debut at Royal Athletic park Saturday afternoon, have shuffled their lineup for the season-opening tussle against North Shore United.

Loss of a pair of forwards—George Wright and Alex Stewart—to Tillicums of the Victoria and District loop and a knee injury suffered in practice by goalie Pete Winters have caused the changes.

Centre-half John Weldon will move up to fill Wright's usual inside-right position. Bob Boyd will take over Stewart's left-wing berth and John Moss, who performed for the Victoria representative side against Glasgow Rangers, will handle the goalkeeping chores.

Rugged Bill Hope will partner veteran Murray Speller to form the fullback protection in front of Moss and Harry Caruthers will step into Weldon's spot at centre-half.

Flanking Weldon will be Hal Holroyd, starting his first Coast league season, and left-half Willie Hamilton, a veteran of competition with English and Scottish first-division teams who will be making his first Canadian appearance.

Ken Hibbert gets the call for the centre-forward slot with Ced Robb and Weldon on the right side and Gordie Jones working inside Boyd on the left flank.

Listed as reserves for Strathconas are Archie Taylor, H. Cossey, Tom Ewing, Winters, Charley

Susie Butt

Wins Trophy For Net Play

Susie Butt, 17-year-old member of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, has been awarded the Fred Fatkin trophy as British Columbia's most improved and sportsmanlike junior tennis player of the year.

Miss Butt, holder of the provincial junior crown and the Victoria and Vancouver Island women's titles, was placed second among B.C.'s junior women in the annual British Columbia Lawn Tennis Association rankings. S. Whitaker of Victoria was 10th in the junior women's rankings.

Only player from outside Vancouver to gain a spot in the senior rankings, Miss Butt was rated sixth in the women's division, which was topped by Claire Lovett. Paul Willey was named No. 1 in the men's section.

Rookie Sparkles for Flyers In 6-3 Victory Over Royals; Only 500 Watch Regals Lose Winnipeg junior ranks got two of the Regals' goals.

Action was fast throughout with the Stampedeers meriting the points.

STAMPS PROTEST

Stampede extra news last night when coach Frank Currie announced he was protesting the 4-3 victory scored over his team by the Saskatoon Quakers on Monday night.

Currie claims the timekeeper made an error in a penalty handed out to Bud Syverson, keeping the rookie defenceman in the penalty box 26 seconds longer than called for. Quakers came through with the winning goal at 10:30, just as Syverson was allowed to go back into action.

A team penalty was assessed against the Stampede at the time for delaying the game while lodging a complaint over the penalty.

NFL Sets Early Draft In Bid To Gain Jump On Canadian Leagues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — At least two weeks before the date of the annual NFL draft, the Philadelphia Eagles will make their "bonus pick" and select the first three choices from the 1955 college player crop some time between Nov. 14 and Nov. 23, held at the annual meeting in some two months earlier than usual.

Commissioner Bert Bell said Wednesday night that there was no secret about this meeting as expressed in some quarters. "I sent out a bulletin to club owners informing them of the meeting and specifically stating that an announcement of the early draft would be made to the press."

Czech Star Faded

Emil Zatopek, great Czech runner and holder of eight world's records, is leading the field here during the 10,000-metre event in the recent London vs. Prague athletic meet at London's White City stadium. However, when the race ended, Gordon Pirie, second from left, and Ken Norris, in third place above, had taken first and second places, respectively, and Zatopek had slipped to third.

 ... drops close verdict

Lightweight champion Wallace "Bud" Smith of Cincinnati kept his title Wednesday night on a unanimous 15-round decision over ex-champion Jimmy Carter of New York in Cincinnati Garden and ended Jimmy's campaign as the ring's record-breaking "lead-leader."

Smith, almost knocked out in the 13th round, fought on to win the votes of all three judges in a thrilling return bout wherein Carter tried to win the title for the fourth time. Carter already held the all-time record by regaining the crown twice.

UNANIMOUS DECISION
 At first the decision was announced as a majority vote, then as a split verdict and later as a unanimous decision. However, only the first announcement was made from the ring. One of the three judges, Joe Bink, caused the long misunderstanding by failing to add his score card correctly.

The changed scoring gave 26-year-old Smith a more decisive triumph in his first defense than he scored at Boston on June 29 when he took the 135-pound crown from Shufflin' Jimmy on a split decision.

Wednesday night's decision gave Smith a triumph in the "rubber match." Each had registered a victory in their two previous fights. Carter had beaten the Cincinnati left-hander on May 28, 1950. That was before Shufflin' Jimmy first won the crown.

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

My friend took a judicious pull at his pipe. It warbled a little but that did not distract his attention from the point at hand. Blowing out a blue cloud of Presbyterian literature, he said: "What a good thing it is that labor has fixed on our society the five-day week—so much more time for recreation—but isn't it surprising that it took us so long in coming to it?"

Somewhere in the back of my mind his remark stirred up a deposit of memory.

"Is it such a modern invention?" I asked.

"Well," he replied, "both John L. Lewis and Walter Reuther are children of this century."

Then we did a bit of research and we found that in the "Apostolic Constitutions" (A.D. 375) the following direction is given:

"Let the slaves work five days; but on the Sabbath day and the Lord's day let them have leisure to go to church for instruction in piety."

Thus, to quote Ecclesiastes, "there is nothing new under the sun."

Right Use of Sunday

After discussing a shorter working week with added days of leisure, it was only natural that we should turn to the question of the right use of Sunday.

"I am opposed," said my friend, "to any form of breaking the Sabbath."

"But," I pointed out, "I thought we were going to talk about Sunday!"

"They are one and the same thing," he rejoined.

"Not at all," I demurred. "The Sabbath belongs to the Old Testament whilst the Lord's day belongs to the New. One is the last day of the week, and the other is the first."

"The Sabbath," I went on, "is associated with the regulations and restrictions of the Talmud. It belongs to the ancient religion of the Jews."

Change Put Off By UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The UN General Assembly struggled through nearly three hours of balloting and procedural wrangle Wednesday before finally deciding again to postpone election of an 11th member to the Security Council.

By a vote of 29 to 8 with 22 abstentions, the assembly approved an American proposal that it adjourn the election and proceed with balloting for the economic and social council and the trusteeship council.

In elections to the economic and social council which followed, Canada was successful on the first ballot. It will occupy the seat being vacated at the end of this year by Australia.

Canada received 48 votes. Also elected on the first ballot were the United States, with 50 votes, and Indonesia with 44. Yugoslavia was elected on the second ballot with 46 votes.

ANOTHER DEADLOCK
Another deadlock resulted in the balloting for the remaining two seats and voting was adjourned until today after the fifth ballot. Greece with 37 votes and Brazil with 30 were the leading candidates but both were short of the required two-thirds majority.

The trusteeship council election was postponed until today as a result of the lengthy balloting.

MISSING FROM THE Christening

Aluminum was named by a man who never saw it. In 1807 the great scientist Sir Humphrey Davy decided that alumina had a metallic base, but failed to find a way to extract the metal. But he went ahead anyway and christened the unseen metal "aluminum". Later he changed his mind and re-named it aluminum. Both versions are still used.

Wonder if the English scientist ever dreamed of the day when, in far-off Canada, millions of hydro-electric horsepower would unlock the riches of alumina to produce more than 500,000 tons of aluminum a year?

Princess Sends B.C. Officialdom into Dither

Mr. Martin had to agree that the province was embarrassed. "That's a story for you," Miss Gwynedd Lloyd, lady-in-waiting, said to a Daily Colonist reporter.

Last night the Princess Royal, only daughter of King George V and Queen Mary, and aunt of Queen Elizabeth, saw the lights of Victoria—and the people of Victoria saw a smiling, gracious princess.

Accompanied by Mayor Claude Harrison, Princess Mary was driven in a lighted limousine through the streets of Victoria.

People gathered in groups along the announced route and cheered the Royal car as it passed. The Princess waved and smiled to the crowds and one woman in a wheel chair got a special wave.

The visit to the legislative buildings was arranged only a short while before the tour. The Princess was met on the steps by Mr. and Mrs. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Pennington. She went into the legislative chamber and was presented with a picture of Queen Elizabeth signing the legislature's golden book during her 1951 tour as princess.

"The opposition is made up about some polished petrified of a few socialists," Mr. Martin stoned. Big disappointment of the tour came when the Royal party passed up a scheduled stop at the rotunda of the buildings. Wood carvings of B.C. animals Thunderbird park. However, by Charles R. Seyfert, caught about 200 persons, gathered to her fancy as she entered. "Aren't they lovely colors," she said to her lady-in-waiting a stop.

WOW THEM WITH A DATE-FILLED Vinarterta

IT STAYS FRESH, JUST LIKE ALL JEWEL CAKES

- for high, light cakes
- for flaky, tender pastry
- for tasty, digestible fried food

Vinarterta

Sometimes like a torte, this cake is developed from an old Icelandic recipe. It cuts into fingers, keeps in the fridge for weeks and makes the cake — and preserves it — is the Jewel Shortening.

- Wipe QUICK-MIX JEWEL SHORTENING
- 1 cup Swift's All-purpose or Butterfield Butter
 - 1 1/2 cups fine granulated sugar
 - 3 Swift's Butterfield eggs
 - 2 tablespoons cream
 - 1 tablespoon almond extract
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 3 1/2 cups cake flour
- Place Jewel in bowl. Jewel is the low cost shortening with the high cost ingredients. In any recipe it excels, but in this particular recipe it's an absolute MUST, because only with Jewel can you get the proper flavour and texture. Add sugar and All-purpose. Cream until light and fluffy. This only takes a couple of minutes because Jewel works so quickly. Add eggs and beat well. Now stir in cream and almond extract. Sift baking powder and flour. Work in flour mixture gradually until batter is almost stiffened, like a cookie dough. Because it contains Jewel, you'll find your batter blends easily. Now divide batter into 6 equal portions. Pat into 8-inch Jewel pans. Bake in a moderate oven until each layer is a delicate brown.

Baking Temp. 175°C
Baking Time about 11 minutes

When cool put layers together with the date filling. Wrap in aluminum foil and store in a cool place. This cake is enhanced if allowed to set for a few days before eating. And with Jewel as an ingredient, it stays fresher longer. Serve in narrow strips.

FILLING

- 1 pound dates, chopped
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine dates, sugar and water. Cook over low heat until smooth and thickened. Add vanilla and lemon juice. Cool.

U.S. Senator 'Sounds Us Out'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon decried the power potential in British Columbia as a "mission of discovery."

In an interview here Tuesday the Democratic member of the Senate said: "I want to see what is being considered by Canada on the Columbia, and sound out the feeling of people here on the diversion plan."

Recent reports indicate Canada and the United States may be headed for a clash of interests over the vast water storage and power potential of the upper Columbia.

Centre of the controversy, as far as the U. S. is concerned, is reported to be Canadian plans to divert flood waters of the Columbia into the Fraser river to increase the power potential in British Columbia.

DEPENDENT ON CANADA

The U. S. Pacific northwest could lose billions of kilowatt-hours of power if the diversion scheme, U. S. power utilities contend.

"We are heavily dependent on Canadian as custodians of the storage end of the Columbia," Senator Neuberger said. "Any action to interfere with the normal flow of the Columbia could do immense harm to our Pacific northwest."

The Senator, appointed by the Senate Interior committee to investigate the Canadian government's diversion scheme, said he hoped some joint development plan would be possible.

By MARGARET SAVILLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP) — Peter Townsend divorced his first wife in January, 1953. She has since remarried.

The first Mrs. Townsend is the one character almost overlooked in the drama of the Royal romance between Townsend and Princess Margaret.

During the current furore she has kept an absolute silence, although there was a time when she was quite close to the Princess, to the Queen and to the late King George VI.

Townsend was 29, already a Battle of Britain hero, when he met Rosemary Pawle when he was stationed at the Hunston RAF base.

She was the daughter of Brig Timothy Pawle, the "squire" of the nearby village of Bedford.

Their courtship was brief. They were married in July, 1941, in the 13th-century church of Much Hadham, and Townsend's RAF colleagues threw a gay wedding party for them.

Townsend already had seen his share of combat flying and the RAF assigned him to posts commanding air training bases around the United Kingdom. Rosemary lived out of a suitcase like many a flier's wife of those war years.

In January, 1944, King George summoned Townsend to Buckingham Palace and in reward for his brilliant record, named him his personal air equerry. They talked for two and one-half hours and, as they left the study, the new equerry and the King met a 13-year-old girl outside.

"This," said the King, "is my daughter, Margaret."

Three weeks later the King gave Townsend and his wife a small cottage on the grounds of Windsor Great Park, "Adelaide Cottage." It was their first permanent home.

They had two sons, born in 1943 and 1945. Giles is now 12, Hugo 9. King George VI himself held baby Hugo in his arms as godfather when the infant was christened in a small church near Windsor.

During those days the two princesses often went to Adelaide Cottage for Sunday afternoon tea with Mrs. Townsend.

Townsend himself became more and more in favor with the Royal Family and more in demand. He arranged innumerable banquets, speeches, receptions, inspections. He went without Rosemary on the long South African Royal tour and with Princess Margaret to Holland on her first official visit abroad.

Townsend's greatest relaxation came when he went with the Royal Family on holiday to Balmoral Castle in the Scottish Highlands on the banks of the River Dee. His wife stayed behind at the cottage.

The King appointed Townsend deputy master of the household, and his infrequent visits to Adelaide Cottage almost ended as his work increased.

The King died in February, 1952. Court circles say Townsend served magnificently in the trying days that followed. But his home life disintegrated.

Eleven months after the King died, Townsend was granted a divorce on grounds of misconduct by his wife with John Adolphus de Laszlo, business man son of the famous painter.

Custody of Giles and Hugo went to the father. They are now in an English boarding school. Rosemary married de Laszlo not long after the divorce. She has an arrangement with Townsend whereby she is allowed to see the boys quite frequently.

Townsend's parting from his wife apparently took place without much animosity.

His former wife's aunt says of him: "He is quite the most charming and adorable man I have ever met. He has a wonderful way with children. He knows just how to handle them. I was always fascinated to watch him playing with his own sons."

She Didn't Scream —Men Were Talking

BODMIN, England (UP)—A housewife told a court she did not scream for help while being dragged past two men into a vacant lot where she was indecently assaulted because she didn't want to interrupt their conversation.

Miss V. Vercoe testified that she was pulled out of a pub by Harold Hooker. Why didn't she call to two men standing outside?

"They were having a conversation. I did not want to go screaming or anything," Hooker was placed on probation.

NEW WILLOWS SHOPPING CENTRE OPENS

The Willows Shopping Centre represents an interesting concept in store design. It is the first shopping centre in Oak Bay to provide drive-in service and an enclosed off-street parking area fully accessible to each store.

Architects Clack, Clayton, Pickstone have designed a distinctive building form that will identify the entire shopping centre. The dominating Red and White Food Store has an inverted butterfly roof with a fully glazed front that extends from the sidewalk to the roof, making the whole of the inside of the store its own display window. This conforms with the very latest trend in self-serve marketing.

The four smaller stores in the Centre are lower in height and are staggered in plan to complete the building frontage facing Cadboro Bay Road. Service to all stores is from a rear road access and a loading area is provided for each store to ensure speedy and efficient delivery.

The Architects have created a space and color pattern. The pedestrian areas, black-topped parking areas, and the landscaped spaces are shaped to give an interesting ground pattern and color strips have been used upon the sidewalks within the centre. The building frontage combines color and glass into an interesting pattern that will attract shoppers.

The Architects have used color to complement the shapes of the building, and to give emphasis where necessary. Each store has a distinctive and contemporary color scheme which can be seen through the large plate-glass windows, but the whole centre has been integrated into a harmonious composition.

The construction of this $500,000 Shopping Centre is of concrete and concrete block. The roof of the Food Market is supported on inverted glue-lam beams and slender steel columns, to give an unobstructed space as large as possible.

There is 3,000 square feet of floor space in the Centre, and the stores are being occupied by the Willoway Red and White Store, the Totem Pharmacy, the Individual Cleaners, the Golden Loaf Bakery, and Tyrell's Hairdressing Salon.

The Shopping Centre is owned by David R. McAdams.

Duplessis Urges Paper Makers To Reach Agreement with Users

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis Wednesday night urged newspaper manufacturers and newspaper publishers to reach agreement "because justice and common sense have their rights everywhere."

Mr. Duplessis spoke to delegates attending the annual convention of the Association of Quebec Forest Engineers. Although he made no direct reference to the possibility of a general newspaper price increase, he said manufacturers of wood products and by-products are entitled to "reasonable profits, proportionate to their capital investments."

"And the consumers too have the right to consideration," he added.

The St. Lawrence Corporation, announced Tuesday it is increasing the price of newsprint $5 a ton.

Presidents of two large Quebec newspaper manufacturing concerns heard Mr. Duplessis' remarks, which followed a ceremony in which he was awarded an honorary degree of science in forestry by its vast lumber resources.

engineering by Laval University. Vernon Johnson, president of the Canadian International Paper Company, made no reference to Mr. Duplessis' remarks in a brief address that followed. A. C. Price, president of Price Brothers and Company Ltd., also attended but was not one of the speakers.

Mr. Duplessis interjected his words about newspaper companies and newspapers during a 15-minute talk about the importance of the role played in Quebec's economy by its vast lumber resources.

The security of cash has turned into a critical problem for Prime Minister St. Laurent said it was discussed at a morning cabinet session as "an urgent matter."

Canada holds huge stocks of grain. Marketing prospects are none too bright. As of July 31, prairie farmers held about 200,000,000 bushels of grain on their farms, about one-half in wheat. Canada is facing keen competition from the United States and other countries in searching for marketing outlets. Currently Canada holds almost 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat, one-half from the 1954 harvest. Elevators and other storage points are reported to be jammed with grain.

PAY ON DELIVERY
Prairie producers sell their grain through the Canadian wheat board which makes its initial or premium payment only when farmers make a delivery. At the same time, the board has curbed deliveries by imposing strict marketing quotas. This has placed the producer in the position of being able to ship only limited portions of his crop with no other ways of obtaining much-needed cash. Banks normally do not lend on the security of farm-held grain.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—District farmers here say wheat not storage—is their main wheat problem.

This opinion was voiced at a "wheat crisis" meeting called by Mayor Harry Veiner Tuesday night to discuss proposed emergency storage sheds to handle wheat above the four-bushel initial quota delivery.

"It is a matter of getting cash advances without going further into debt," Mayor Harry Veiner of Redcliff commented.

Bid Accepted For Timber On Watershed

The bid of G. Seaton on timber to be cut in the Goldstream watershed—with an estimated revenue yield of $117,215—was accepted yesterday by the Greater Victoria Water Board.

Mr. Seaton bid $25 per thousand board feet for hemlock $7.50 more than the next highest of four other bidders. Bids on fir were close together, but bids on western white pine ranged from $15 to Mr. Seaton's $30.

The board also accepted the $144,828 tender of Dominion Bridge to supply 1,100 feet of steel pipe, a $5,385.50 valve tender of Terminal City Iron Works and a $374,430 coupling tender of Cranes Ltd.

Christopher T. Zachariassen and Ian R. McIntyre, both of HMCS Siskiwit, escaped injury at midnight on Tuesday when their 1938 model car was wrecked at Esquimalt and Canton roads. Police said the car went out of control, rolled over and righted itself.

A plaque probably will be unveiled early in November to mark the site of British Columbia's first common school.

Mayor Wants Water Pipe Replaced By Multi-Million-Dollar Sooke Tunnel

BY R. O. MARRION
Colonist City Hall Reporter

A start as soon as possible on a tunnel to replace the present Sooke lake pipeline was recommended to the Greater Victoria Water Board yesterday by its chairman, Mayor Claude L. Harrison.

Cost of a tunnel was estimated at $3,000,000 or more. Water board officials said yesterday that under present conditions, and in some locations the cost might be as high as $5,000,000.

The board tabled pending reports on costs and requirements by its engineers, the mayor's recommendations, which included:

1. Increasing the water supply by making an open ditch from the junction of the north and west forks of the Leech river to Macdonald lake and on to Sooke lake;

2. Providing ample water for Sooke lake for years to come by securing various creeks from Sooke lake to the harbor and erecting small dams at lakes along the route;

3. Starting both these projects this winter to provide work if there is unemployment in this area.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested that the tunnel could be financed through sectional cropping of the timber of the watershed, and Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich put forward the idea that by waiting until 1963, the tunnel could be built at little or no extra cost to water-users.

Mayor Harrison told the board the water mains from Goldstream and Sooke lakes would be very hard-pressed and perhaps quite unable to give the full and proper supply of water if we should have a couple of dry summers and a dry winter.

He said the work would take several years and therefore the board would need all the time it could get to complete it.

Taking water from the Leech river system, the mayor said, should be among the first projects. It would mean diverting waters at the junction of the north and west forks and carrying it by the open ditch to Sooke lake, taking in the waters of creeks on the way.

He suggested the tunnel to replace the pipeline from Sooke lake to Japan gulch should be built from a point near the bottom of the large and deep northernmost section of the lake.

Ald. Edgelow agreed the board should "start thinking of the future in no uncertain terms." He understood, he said, that the Sooke system could supply only 15,000,000 gallons a day and Greater Victoria used 25,000,000 gallons a day in the summer.

"We dried up one of the Goldstream lakes this summer," he said.

Ald. Edgelow said the timber on the watershed was worth between $15,000,000 and $17,000,000 and, he believed, should be cropped in sections to pay for the tunnel.

'Short Weight' Loads

Civic Candidate Denies Rebuttal Of Gravel Affair

Saanich council candidate David Wright maintained firmly last night, in the face of denials, that he told Councilors Leslie Passmore and S. W. Brock some 18 months ago that "short weight" gravel loads were delivered to the municipality.

Both councillors denied being approached by Mr. Wright and Coun. Brock said he didn't even know him. "I wish to say it was in connection with the sewer project that I approached Councilors Passmore and Brock, knowing full well what they would find if they investigated," said Mr. Wright.

"By looking further they would have found out about the gravel contracts and other irregularities concerning Saanich," he said.

"I do not wish to impugn the integrity of any member of the council but I do feel when a man is representing the people of Saanich he should take more interest in the affairs before him," Mr. Wright said.

"I am sorry Mr. Brock doesn't remember me but I did speak for one hour before the council and Mr. Brock was present at that time," he said.

"I also spoke to Mr. Brock twice over the phone previous to that."

River Yields Evidence

Victoria Sailor Hears Tale Of Parents' Disappearance

Peter Kirk was six years old when his father and step-mother vanished 15 years ago.

Last night The Daily Colonist was able to tell him the mystery of their disappearance had been solved.

Near Sauli Ste. Marie, a battered, rusted 1938 model car was dragged from the St. Mary's River. Its 1940 licence plates indicated it belonged to Earl D. Kirk.

In the car were the skeletal remains of a man and woman. The coroner's office said the two died from accidental drowning when their car plunged off the road for some reason no one will ever be able to determine.

Mr. Kirk and his wife, Dolly, vanished while on a motor trip. Their four small children have been brought up by relatives.

JUST MARRIED
Peter, 21-year-old sailor at HMCS Naden, married his petite wife, Marilyn, only a month ago. They live in a neat little flat at 851 Pandora.

"I guess I always expected something like this had happened. Years ago, when I was a small boy, I heard they were dragging in the hope of finding something. But all they got was some human hair."

Peter was not shocked by the news of the discovery of the tragedy for that reason. "I can scarcely remember my father," Peter said.

Mrs. Kirk was the second wife of Peter's father. Peter's mother is married a second time and living in Marcellin, Sask.

BY GRANDPARENTS
Peter was brought up by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron.

One of Kirk's daughters, just a baby when her parents vanished, was "sitting here doing her homework when she heard the radio like I did and she was shocked too," said Mrs. Cameron. The girl "never knew her parents."

Mr. Cameron said "It isn't exactly confirmed yet, but they said they'll soon know everything."

Education Minister Ray Wiliston is of the opinion that no group has ever reached as high a standard as school pupils of today although the department's high requirements are still not being met.

In a letter to Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, the minister said his department shares the idea that involuntary homework should be cut to a minimum.

The letter was a reply to a TLC motion that the added

"I must confess I am somewhat confused about this," said secretary Percy Emsworn. "And I have my doubts about this high standard statistics are supposed to show. Anyway if we are not going to get anywhere."

Jubilee Hospital To Get Grant

Grants in aid totalling $29,100, including $2,000 for Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital, have been approved by the provincial government.

The grants represent one-third of the total cost of repair or renovation work done in 23 B.C. hospitals.

THE HOSTILE
"The emergence of labor to its present powerful position is the result of a long and bitter struggle. This struggle generated and perpetuated a hostility which, in my opinion, still persists and sometimes makes most difficult the conduct of friendly and abjective negotiations," Mr. Pearlman observed.

"The old concept of master and servant is no longer valid, and I most certainly welcome the change in relationship. However, in depriving the master of the excessive advantage that he had have we created a new master and servant?" he asked.

Mr. Pearlman said he did not question the right of a group of men to go on strike in an effort to enforce their demands, but that he did object to the same group so forcibly preventing other men working.

He charged corruption and intimidation had been used in Victoria and elsewhere to gain new members for unions.

As a result, B.C. industry is now finding itself unable to complete with outside markets, he said.

He said that small items, but nonetheless important, can be manufactured in Montreal, Toronto or Winnipeg, shipped to Victoria for resale, and sold here for less than the same items can be produced here.

In addition to the high wages and short working hours, B.C. is well to the fore in the "so-called fringe benefits," he said.

Academic Education Detrimental to Parenthood

NEW YORK (AP)—The news of logic training students, reported in the American magazine, Dr. Ben Spock, says the trend of thought in the modern world is to make parenthood a profession, and that it is emotionally exacting. He says that the modern parent is a professional parent, and that the modern child is a professional child. He says that the modern parent is a professional parent, and that the modern child is a professional child. Chief Guide Meets Her Girls

A cheering crowd of more than 1,000 Girl Guides and Brownies jammed Bay Street Armory yesterday to greet Lady Baden-Powell and each received a warm handshake and a word of encouragement from their famous leader. Janet Day, 8, right, of the Cedar Hill Brownie group, proudly salutes Lady Baden-Powell, left, while other admiring Guides and Brownies look on.

Canada Passed Over

Soviet Union Would Have Big Five Permanent Members of Atom Agency

Newest RN Ship Has TV Network

LONDON (CPI)—Everything's up screens. Eventually it is hoped to have 20 more small screens. The £2,750 TV system has been installed in Britain's newest and biggest aircraft carrier, the 36,000-ton Ark Royal. It can be used both on operations and for entertainment.

Canadian Missionaries Praise Red China Regime

HONG KONG (Reuters)—A rived here Thursday after 30 years in China and praised the accomplishments of the Chinese Communist regime. Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Brown of the United Church of Canada said that under the Communist regime "we smelled no opium, saw no gambling, met no beggars."

Tupper Away

VANCOUVER (CPI)—R. H. Tupper, whose one-man royal commission on Vancouver police affairs is adjourned indefinitely was reported Wednesday to be away on vacation until the end of October.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union has proposed to the United States that the Big Five—Britain, the U.S., France, China and Russia—be designated permanent members of the board of governors of an international atomic energy agency.

The Russians also want India, Indonesia, Egypt and Communist Romania to be named to the first board of governors. Canada, which has played a leading atomic role from the start, is not mentioned.

REPLY TO U.S.

This was disclosed in the text of a Soviet communication replying to a note from the United States outlining the proposed statute of the atoms-for-peace agency.

A copy of the confidential document became available as the UN General Assembly's political committee debated proposals for setting up the proposed agency. Senator John O. Pastore, U.S. delegate on the committee, put before the delegates a revised resolution suggesting that an international conference be called to approve the statute after it is drafted.

CO-SPONSOR

Canada co-sponsored the resolution, which also calls for smaller and more specialized scientific conferences than that held at Geneva in August.

Under a draft statute devised by eight countries, including Canada, the Big Four plus Canada would form the central part of the board of governors.

Bechet Sends Paris

PARIS (Reuters)—Three policemen and four jazz fans were injured here Wednesday night when about 2,000 people tried to force their way into a Paris music hall where American clarinetist Sidney Bechet was appearing.

Police reinforcements were called to the music hall in the centre of Paris when the crowd of jazz fans, mostly teen-aged boys and girls, tried to charge into the hall, which was already full.

The windows of a shop near the music hall were smashed in the disorders.

Bombs Greet New Premier

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—Bomb explosions rocked Casablanca and Oran yesterday shortly after the arrival of Si Fatmi Ben Slimane, 57-year-old, white-bearded moderate leader who rushed here from Paris to discuss an offer to make him first Moroccan premier in history.

New Battle of the Atlantic

U.S. Boasts of Jetliners 'Pipe Dream' Say Britons

'Finest Thing in Aviation' Not Yet Off the Ground

NEW YORK (BUP)—A battle of the Atlantic is shaping up between British and American airlines over U.S.-built jetliners that the British said were closer to a pipe-dream than a reality.

U.S. officials, here for the annual meeting of the 75-airline 40-nation International Air Transport Association, said the planes which Pan-American World Airways announced it would operate to Britain by 1960 were the finest thing that had happened to aviation.

Their British counterparts, who declined to be identified by name because they still have two more days to spend here at the so-called "world's airlines parliament," said a polite version of "no-hum."

They said they would take a lot of convincing that the $280,000,000 order for 45 of the 80-to-100-passenger jets from two American firms either would be filled on time or live up to its press clippings as when and if the planes ever get into service. One British official attending Wednesday's IATA sessions on operations, equipment and facilities was openly skeptical that the costly American jets, designed to weigh 250,000 pounds each and fly at close to 600 miles an hour between New York and London, would ever make it.

"If they ever are delivered, it is more likely that they will cruise at nearly 100 miles an hour slower than that and make so much noise that authorities in New York, for example, won't stand for them," he said.

New Round Opens

Canada To Battle U.S. Giveaways

OTTAWA (CPI)—Canada's fight to protect its vital export wheat markets against the United States giveaway program reopens in Washington today.

A four-man mission left by plane late Wednesday for a conference expected to last one day in the U.S. capital.

Its aim: to seek closer consultation on the workings of the huge U.S. program for disposing of surplus wheat stocks. Canada claims her own overseas markets are being adversely affected and hopes to obtain a say in policing of the U.S. program.

Chief spokesman of the Canadian mission is Mitchell W. Sharp, associate deputy minister of trade, who recently went to Moscow with External Affairs Minister Pearson for trade talks. He will also be Canada's chief representative at the Geneva meeting Oct. 26 of the 47-country International Wheat Agreement.

With him are George McIvor, chairman of the Canadian wheat board; William McNamara, the board's assistant chief, and Dr. A. E. Richards, a leading economist of the agriculture department. The wheat board, a federal agency, markets Prairie grain.

The Washington talks were lined up at the Sept. 26 meeting of the Canada-U.S. joint economic and trade committee.

That body, made up of four cabinet ministers from each country, agreed to work for closer consultation on the American giveaway program.

Slip Cuts Road

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CPI)—Approximately 50 feet of main highway 17 miles north of here was taken out or covered with mud, rocks and trees Wednesday when three acres of land slipped down to the road.

The landslide was started by an artesian spring. The spring, land engineer F. E. Dembicki said, became plugged and the water saturated the hillside.

Princess Sends Officialdom into Dither; Queen Mother's Plaque Lost from Chair

A usually shy Princess Royal that King George VI had sat in it on May 3, 1939, and that the Duke of Edinburgh had sat in it on Oct. 22, 1951.

Big Pipeline Dollar Order Pleases U.K.

LONDON (CPI)—News of a $12,000,000 Canadian steel pipe contract was being digested Wednesday as a sweetener by Britons, preparing to face new economic impositions from the government. The big dollar order was helping to ease the sting of United States rejections of British tenders.

Treasury boss R.A. Butler popped the news at a luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain.

The South Durham Iron and Steel Company, which signed the natural gas pipeline contract Tuesday with the Westcoast Transmission Company, immediately dropped plans for a Friday announcement and was forced to call a press conference in the Savoy hotel.

There, with restrained relish, R. Chetwynd Talbot, chairman of the steel company, outlined the details. The order is for 75,000 tons (short tons of 2,000 pounds) of 30-inch pipe, 40 feet long per section. The amount equals about 250 miles.

It will be used in the natural gas pipeline running 550 miles from Fort St. John, B.C., and the Peace River gas fields to Vancouver. It was headline news.

Butler Lauds Canada But Keeps Trade Curb

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON (CPI)—Canada was alternately flattered and teased Wednesday by the British chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler.

Addressing an overflow audience of Canadian businessmen, the chancellor spoke in highly flattering terms of the "oldest Dominion," sprinkled his speech with knowledgeable references to latest developments, but disappointed those who hoped for immediate freer entry of Canadian goods into the United Kingdom market.

"Frankly the time has come to put on the brakes," he said, referring to the measures he is going to announce in the House of Commons next Wednesday when he presents a special budget.

These internal difficulties, he said, make it hard for Britain to move any faster in the external field toward the unrestricted trade Canada would like. Butler was addressing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, an organization formed originally by Canadian companies operating in the United Kingdom.

As television cameras cranked, Butler then rose and pleased his listeners with some glowing remarks, Canada, he said, now is "really becoming the centre of the modern civilized world."

Canada was a "subject which warms the heart" and the oldest Dominion was the "staunchest of friends in peace and war."

"No country is in closer partnership with us today in our aims and policies in world affairs than Canada," he said.

She was assured by Deputy Provincial Secretary R. A. Pennington that Princess Elizabeth had sat in her father's chair. He explained that workmen must have put the plaques on the wrong chairs.

"B.C.'s face is very red tonight," Mr. Pennington told the princess.

Clergy Divided on Question

Barrier to Marriage of Divorcees Not Church Law

(Opposition by the Church of England to the marriage of Princess Margaret and Capt. Peter Townsend. But, as a matter of record, the Church of England itself is divided on whether a divorced person might marry. This division by the ruling of the Church of England's synod is revealed that no such united opposition exists.)

By THE REV. C. O. RHODES

LONDON (UPI)—During the discussion about Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Townsend, several sweeping assertions have been made regarding the attitude of the Church of England toward remarriage after divorce. These need correction.

It has been said, for instance, that, according to church law, the remarriage of a divorced person is no marriage during the lifetime of the other partner. An eminent ecclesiastic, Canon C. T. Kirliland, has said: "We cannot allow the marriage of an innocent party in church any more than we can the other party." He also said of the Princess: "She contemplates doing something which is deliberately an affront both to religion and the church."

In some places it is taken for granted that the much-contested marriage would automatically result in the exclusion of the Princess from the holy communion, either for a time or permanently.

What are the facts? First I should like to clear the fog

a little by dealing with the attitude of the Archbishop of Canterbury himself.

It is well known that Dr. Fisher has expressed himself forcefully on the subject. He is firmly convinced that remarriage of divorcees is contrary to the high ideal of Christianity and should therefore not be celebrated in church.

In this matter he speaks for a large part of the Church of England. Whether he speaks for the whole is another question.

Dr. Fisher is a man of strong convictions. From my own correspondence with him I know how deeply he feels about the sanctity of marriage and how angry he can be if he thinks the ideal is being in any way reduced. But I know also that he is the most humane of men.

I am quite sure that he has not played the part in the affairs of Princess Margaret that is being attributed to him.

If his opinion has been asked, he will have stated it without equivocation. When the memoirs of this period come to be written it will be found that he has acted throughout with the utmost kindness and consideration, although without surrendering any point of principle.

On the other hand, the majority in the church's legislative bodies, the convocations, have taken a severe line. In 1938 all four houses of the convocations passed a series of 13 resolutions dealing with marriage.

Here is the important one: "That in order to maintain the principle of lifelong obligation which is inherent in every marriage contract between Christians (however solemnized) and is expressed in the plainest terms in the marriage service, the church should not allow the use of that service in the case of anyone who has a partner still living."

Such was the opinion of the majority in convocations 17 years ago. It is only an opinion and does not have the force of law.

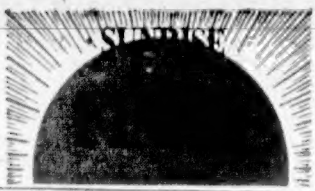

What is more, although as an expression of a majority opinion it carries a certain moral weight with the clergy, it has no authority whatever with the laity of the church who do not take part in elections to the convocations and have no place in them.

What is the attitude of the clergy themselves? If recent sample polls of opinion are to be trusted, nearly half of the clergy disapprove of the resolutions of the convocations. They would marry in church persons who have been through the divorce courts if the circumstances warranted this.

It is not true that Princess Margaret is "deliberately affronting religion and the church." That was a cruel and unjust thing to say.

On the contrary she is a splendid and conscientious churchwoman herself.

B.C. Streetcars Off to Austria?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Thirty-six former Vancouver streetcars may be sent to Vienna, to rehabilitate the city's transit system after 10 years of Communist rule.

A spokesman for the British Columbia Electric Company said yesterday his company has sold the cars for an undisclosed amount to the B.C. Brokerage Company. The brokerage company is negotiating for sale of the cars to the Vienna city council.

ing a floating television network.

The £2,750 TV system has been installed in Britain's newest and biggest aircraft carrier, the 36,800-ton Ark Royal. It can be used both on operations and for entertainment.

The giant carrier, worth about £15,000,000, is equipped with one TV camera and eight large screens. Eventually it is hoped to have 20 more small screens.

Capt. D. A. F. Campbell, Ark Royal's commanding officer, said the system is used mainly for entertainment of the 2,700-man crew, picking up BBC programs, but it can also be used for simultaneous briefing of pilots in three sections of the ship.

It is hoped, he said, to provide "live" programs later from the ship's studio.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union has proposed to the United States that the Big Five—Britain, the U.S., France, China and Russia—be designated permanent members of the board of governors of an international atomic energy agency.

The Russians also want India, Indonesia, Egypt and Communist Romania to be named to the first board of governors. Canada, which has played a leading atomic role from the start, is not mentioned.

This was disclosed in the text of a Soviet communication replying to a note from the United States outlining the proposed statute of the atomic-energy agency.

A copy of the confidential document became available as the UN General Assembly's political committee debated proposals for setting up the proposed agency. Senator John O. Pastore, U.S. delegate on the committee, put before the delegates a revised resolution suggesting that an international conference be called to approve the statute after it is drafted.

Canada co-sponsored the resolution, which also calls for smaller and more specialized scientific conferences than that held at Geneva in August.

Under a draft statute devised by eight countries, including Canada, the Big Four plus Canada would form the central part of the board of governors.

Plans Called Pipe-Dreams

'Finest in Aviation' Not Yet Off Ground

NEW YORK (UPI)—A battle of the Atlantic is shaping up between British and American airlines over U.S.-built jetliners that the British said were closer to a pipe-dream than a reality.

U.S. officials, here for the annual meeting of the 75-airline, 40-nation International Air Transport Association, said the planes which Pan-American World Airways announced it would operate to Britain by 1960 were the finest thing that had happened to aviation.

Their British counterparts, who declined to be identified by name because they still have two more days to spend here at the so-called "world's airlines parliament," said a polite version of "no-hum."

They said they would take a lot of convincing that the $289,000,000 order for 45 of the 80-to-100-passenger jets from two American firms either would be filled on time or live up to its press clippings as, when and if, the planes ever get into service.

One British official attending Wednesday's IATA sessions on operations, equipment and facilities was openly skeptical that the costly American jets, designed to weigh 250,000 pounds each and fly at close to 600 miles an hour between New York and London, would ever make it.

"If they ever are delivered, it is more likely that they will cruise at nearly 100 miles an hour slower than that and make so much noise that authorities in New York, for example, won't stand for them," he said.

Bechet Sends Paris

PARIS (Reuters)—Three policemen and four jazz fans were injured here Wednesday night when about 2,000 people tried to force their way into a Paris music hall where American clarinetist Sidney Bechet was appearing.

Police reinforcements were called to the music hall in the centre of Paris when the crowd of jazz fans, mostly teen-aged boys and girls, tried to charge into the hall, which was already full.

The windows of a shop near the music hall were smashed in the disorders.

Two Accused Of Big Theft

TORONTO (CP)—The second of two former employees of Imperial Oil Ltd. accused of stealing $30,880 from the firm over a six-year period gave himself up to police Wednesday night in his lawyer's office.

Douglas D. Storms, 38, was jointly charged with 60-year-old William Summerfield, an employee of the firm for 38 years. Storms has been with the firm since 1936.

Summerfield was arrested Tuesday night in his Toronto home.

'We Must Find It'

Princess Sends Officialdom into Dither; Queen Mother's Plaque Lost from Chair

A usually shy Princess Royal last night made British Columbia officialdom blush.

Her Royal Highness made an unscheduled tour of the legislative buildings last night and found that plaques marking the royal chairs in the executive chamber have been incorrectly placed and that one is missing.

Plaques on one chair showed that King George VI had sat in it on May 3, 1939, and that the Duke of Edinburgh had sat in it on Oct. 22, 1951.

The other chair had a plaque which showed Queen Elizabeth had sat in it on Oct. 22, 1951, when she was a princess.

The Princess Royal put on her glasses and scrutinized the plaques carefully. She noticed that one was missing . . . the chair as her father had occupied in 1939, but the plaques showed where Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother) sat.

"We must find that plaque. Look, it has been here," she said to Health Minister Eric Martin. "We must trace the plates."

She studied the plaques further and argued that according to protocol Princess Elizabeth should have sat in the same chair as her father had occupied in 1939, but the plaques showed the Duke of Edinburgh had sat in it.

She was assured by Deputy Provincial Secretary R. A. Pennington that Princess Elizabeth had sat in her father's chair. He explained that workmen must have put the plaques on the wrong chairs.

"B.C.'s face is very red to-night," Mr. Pennington told the princess.
